RUSSIAN STAR IN STAR TREK

Fictional character Pavel Andreievich Chekhov first appeared on TV in 1967, during the second season of the science fiction series Star Trek. Despite being on TV for a short time (from 1966-69), the series was a hit and still has many fans today, 40 years after its creation. Star Trek led to ten feature films, an animated series, novels and comic books. So why was it so popular and why did they need a Russian star?

Executive Producer Gene Roddenberry decided to introduce a character with 'youth appeal', that is to say a character young people could understand. Best known as the young, enthusiastic navigator on board the starship Enterprise, Chekhov had a haircut similar to one of The Monkees (a very popular pop group in the USA at that time). But he certainly was no American! He was a proud Russian with a thick accent and had the surname of the famous Russian playwright. Actor Walter Koenig played the role, an American with Lithuanian Russian parents.

We can view the character of Chekhov as symbolic, one introduced to present a better world. Created in the 1960s during the Cold War, the series was set in a very different time - in the 23rd century. There was a rumour that the Russians themselves came up with the idea of including a Russian character, writing an article in Pravda criticising the absence of a Russian in the series. One thing is sure - it made sense to have a Russian on board as the Soviet Union was one of the leaders in space exploration. Other characters of the multinational crew included Scotty (of Scottish heritage), Sulu (from Japan), Uhura (from Africa) and Spock, the half-human, part alien (Vulcan). All were on the same mission: 'to explore new worlds, to seek out new life and new civilisations, to boldly go where no man has gone before', as the series states in its opening.

Chekhov and the crew certainly live through many exciting adventures: mysterious illnesses, capture by aliens, time travel -even romance.

nesses, capture by aliens, time travel -even romance. In the course of the two series we get to know Chekhov quite well. We see that he has many positive qualities: he is young, good-looking and has a good sense of humour. He regularly jokes (and boasts) about Russia's achievements. He even claims in one programme that the fairy tale Cinderella came from Russia! However, he himself was less lucky in love. While training at the Academy in the 2260s Chekhov had a romance with another Russian, Irina Galilina. But their characters were too different (Irina criticised Chekhov for being too rigid) and disappointment followed.

Chekhov's character develops in the programme and he begins to take on some of the traits of the ship's captain, Captain James T Kirk. We understand that he has strong principles and can pay close attention to detail. He is also a loyal member of the team. As a result he is able to work himself up the ranks, working first as a junior officer, then as navigator. In the first Star Trek film he becomes lieutenant; in the second he is the commander on another spaceship, The USS Reliant. In this film Chekhov's character is severely tested. Villain Khan Noonien Singh puts eels inside Chekhov's head in attempt to control his brain. However, our hero recovers and lives to fight another battle. The character's final appearance takes place in the year 2293 when he is a guest on board a new ship called Enterprise B. Another ship, The USS Chekhov, was named in his honour, but is destroyed at the Battle of Wolf 359.

But the Star Trek legend lives on. 'Trekkies' or 'Trekkers' as the fans are called, can see another film, out in 2008. or watch Star Trek webisodes online.

PAINTER

Vincent Van Gogh was an outstanding painter of the 19th century. He was born in 1853 in Holland, but he lived much of his life in France. He was a very emotional man, and there was much suffering in his life. Van Gogh did not start painting until he was twenty- seven, ten years before he died. Before becoming a painter, he was a teacher, an art dealer and a church preacher. However, Van Gogh was mentally ill. During one of his fits of madness he attacked his friend, the artist Paul Gauguin. In another fit of madness, Van Gogh cut off part of his own ear.

Eventually he went into a mental hospital but he did not get any better. Finally, in 1890 Vincent Van Gogh shot himself. His last words were "La tristesse durera". (The sadness will continue.) His style of painting was very different from classical art. He painted pictures of the sunny, hot regions of France. Nobody has ever painted cornfields or sunflowers like Van Gogh. His paintings are full of colour and sunlight. He looked for interesting shapes and exciting colours. He liked to work freely and quickly. Today his paintings are worth millions of pounds but in his lifetime he only sold one.

Many English people feel a great deal of admiration for Queen Elizabeth I who ruled England from 1558 to 1603. The admiration is based on the view of this queen as a strong and powerful oman, who possessed great political skills. However, Elizabeth did not seem to have much happiness in her private life.

She was born in 1533, the daughter of the king, Henry VIII, and his second wife, Anne Boleyn. Henry had already divorced his first wife, Catherine of Aragon, to marry Elizabeth's mother, and in fact executed Anne Boleyn when their daughter was three.

Elizabeth was a clever child, and was well taught, but her early years were not happy. When Henry died in 1547, Elizabeth's brother, Edward, became king at the age of nine. When he died, seven years later their elder sister Mary, a Roman Catholic, became queen. Elizabeth, herself a Protestant, suffered greatly during these years and was kept as a prisoner in the Tower of London.

Elizabeth finally became queen in 1558, when Mary died, and reigned over the country until 1603. During this period, English sailors established trade routes all over the world, and sometimes stole gold and silver from the ships of other nations. This activity, and also religious differences, led to conflict with Spain, the strongest and richest country in Europe in the sixteenth century. In 1588 Elizabeth's navy defeated an attempt by the Spanish to invade England.

Elizabeth had some proposals of marriage, but she never married. There was no shortage of men wishing to link themselves to her for political and other motives. Text 3. His Rich Aunt.

Hilary Smith belonged to a good family. His father never failed to mention the fact.

Unfortunately Hilary had some troubles with the bank and was sent to Australia. He did not like Australia and Australia did not like him. Therefore he was eager to return to England.

He could not earn enough money to book his passage. So he had to wait until his father and his brother died. They fortunately did it at the same time. He received all the money that belonged to a good family and soon spent it. When all the money had been spent, Hilary could do one of two things. He could die or work. Neither of these gave him any pleasure.

Then he remembered that he had a rich aunt. She was the father's only sister. Hilary found out her address. The old lady was glad to see her only nephew. Unfortunately she was seriously ill. The doctor told Hilary that nothing could cure the old lady. Hilary was afraid to remain alone in the hard world. So he chose a moment when his aunt was feeling much better than usual and asked her for the details of her will. The old woman told her nephew that she had made a will when she was a young girl. She was very religious and left all her money to some religious people in China. She didn't make any other will. The next day Hilary found out that when a woman gets married, an earlier will loses its value. A new will must be made, the money goes to the nearest relation. His future was safe. Hilary badly needed money, he owed a lot to shopkeepers, who trusted him because his aunt was rich. It was impossible for Hilary to speak to his aunt about money. She got very bad and angry when money was mentioned. One morning she told Hilary that she was going to send for her lawyer to make a new will. Hilary was afraid that she wanted to leave all her money to somebody else. So he took a decision. Every night his aunt took some medicine to make her sleep. Hilary decided to double the portion. He could put her to sleep forever. He put some more medicine into the glass. His aunt took the glass and looked at Hilary. She thanked her nephew and said: "If I am alive tomorrow, I shall change the will in your favour. If I die tonight, you will get nothing." She explained to her nephew that she had never been married, so her will did not lose its value. Hilary tried to take the glass away but the old lady raised it and drank.

ext 1. Why did the little dog die?

Once Mrs. Reed intended to give a party. She wanted to invite her friends for dinner and a game of bridge. She was thinking what special dish to prepare for dinner when her maid-servant announced that there was a man at the back door offering to sell mushrooms.

The lady accompanied by the little terrier came down to the kitchen and found there a stranger with a basket over his arm. The lady knew nothing about mushrooms and she asked the man if they were not poisonous. The man reassured her that they were good. The lady paid the money at once, ordering the servant to empty the basket and return it to its owner. While the servant was emptying the basket she dropped a mushroom, and the terrier immediately swallowed it.

The guests arrived at the appointed hour and were served a dish of mushrooms, which they liked very much. When the guests began to play cards, the hostess noticed that the servant's eyes were red with tears. Calling her aside, Mrs. Reed asked her what was the cause of her tears. The girl said that she was crying because the dog had died.

The terrible truth flashed through the lady's brain. She addressed her guests and said that the mushrooms she had offered them were poisonous. She suggested going to the nearest hospital to have the contents of their stomachs pumped out. All rushed to the hospital. The staff of the hospital were surprised to see a group of patients in evening dress. On arriving home, the lady asked where the terrier's body was. Text 2. I have recently become very worried about my 16-year-old son, Nick. Although he was never brilliant at school, he always used to get reasonably good marks. But his work has become so bad that his teachers say there is really no point in his staying on at school any longer. He used to be such a good swimmer that he won several prizes. But now he hardly ever goes to the pool to practice any more.

And instead of the neat clothes he used to wear, all he ever puts on now is the same old pair of shabby jeans, and a dirty sweatshirt. But that isn't all. Last Sunday, I got up earlier than usual. Nick was in the kitchen. The radio was on so loud that he didn't hear me come in behind him. My handbag was on the table. He had taken a ten-pound note out of it and was just about to put it in his pocket. We had a terrible row! Finally, he broke down and confessed everything. There is a big amusement arcade near his school with all sorts of electronic games. They have names like Dark Invader and Space Warrior. Text 3. Arthur Bloxham

Solicitor -- адвокат

When Arthur Bloxham was in his last term at Oxford University he met a girl undergraduate who attracted him very much indeed. He asked Eve to tea once or twice and then, on the very last day of the term, which happened to be fine and sunny, he suggested that they should go rowing on the river and take a picnic lunch. Arthur could not row very well, but managed to get a couple of miles upstream before it was time for lunch. Then the disaster happened. Arthur stood up to climb out to the bank, but he overbalanced and upset the boat. Eve fell into the river. The water was not deep, but it was cold and muddy. They were both wet, of course, but in addition Eve had lost her handbag, in which she had put a gold wristwatch which had been given to her on her twenty-first birthday only two months before. There was nothing to do but go home. On their way home Eve refused to speak to him. When they finally arrived at the gates of the college she just disappeared without a word. The next day Arthur had to leave the University and go to London. Before he caught the train he telephoned Eve, but the line was dead.

Six years later Arthur was a brilliant young lawyer. One day he was asked to take a divorce case. A meeting with his client was arranged. A few days later, Arthur walked into the office, where his client was waiting for him and stopped in surprise. "Good God!" he said. "Eve!" "Hello, Arthur," she said. "I'll hope your law is better than your rowing." "If it is not," replied Arthur "I'll buy you another gold watch." Needless to say, Arthur obtained a divorce for his client. And though he did not have to buy her a gold watch, he spent far more than that on taking her out to dinner and theatre in London.

Text №1: All's well that ends well.

One afternoon some friends of Susan and Derek telephoned them and invited them for a walk in the evening. They had not seen one another for a long time but Susan had bought tickets for the theatre for that evening. She and Derek wanted to see the play very much, several different people had recommended it to them. However, they agreed to meet their friends before the theatre. They all met early in the evening, went into the park, sat down on a bench and talked for an hour. When Susan got up, she could not find her handbag. She was very sorry because there was a lot of money in it. But she and Derek decided to go to the theatre and forget about it for a few hours. Then suddenly Susan remembered that the theatre tickets had been in the handbag, too. So they could not see the play which had already started by this time. Derek had some money, so they went to a cafe to have supper and later went to the nearest police station. Perhaps they would know something about the handbag. To their surprise Susan's handbag was there with everything in it. A child had picked it up in the park and the child's parents had taken it to the police station.

The friends went straight to the theatre and, with the money they thought they had lost, bought excellent seats for all the performances of that month.

Text №2: Life as I find it.

The man, who lives in Philadelphia, when he was young and poor, entered a bank, and said: "Please sir, don't you want a boy?" And the bank man said: "No, little boy, I don't want a little boy."

The little boy went silently down the steps of the bank. The bank man stepped behind a door for he thought the boy was going to throw a stone at him. But the little boy picked up something, and stuck it in his poor pocket.

"Come here, little boy," the bank man said, and the boy came up to him. "What did you pick up?" The little boy answered: "A pin." And the bank man said: "Little boy, are you good?" and he said he was. The bank man said: "Whom do you vote for? -excuse me, do you go to school?" and he said he did.

Then the bank man took down a pen made of gold, and he wrote on a piece of paper, "St. Peter," and he asked the little boy what it stood for, and he said: "Salt Peter." The bank man said it meant "Saint Peter." Then the little boy said: "Oh!" Then the bank man took the little boy into partnership, and gave him half the profits and all the capital, and he married the bank man's daughter and now all he has is all his, and all his own, too.

My uncle told me this story, and I spent six weeks in picking up pins in front of the bank. I expected the bank man would call me in and say: "Little boy, are you good?" and I was going to say, "Yes," and when he asked me what "St. John" stood for, I was going to say "Salt John". But the bank man didn't want to have a partner, for one day he said to me, "Little boy, what's that you are picking up?" I said: "Pins." He said: "Let's see them." He took them, and I took off my cap, ready to go in the bank and become a partner, and marry his daughter. But I didn't get an invitation. He said: "Those pins belong to the bank, and if I catch you hanging around any more I'll set the dog on you!" Then I left and the old man kept the pins. Such is life as I find it.

1 Belgium has always had a lot more than the faceless administrative buildings that you can see in the outskirts of its capital, Brussels. A number of beautiful historic cities and Brussels itself offer impressive architecture, lively nightlife, first-rate restaurants and numerous other attractions for visitors. Today, the old-fashioned idea of 'boring Belgium' has been well and truly forgotten, as more and more people discover its very individual charms for themselves.

2 Nature in Belgium is varied. The rivers and hills of the Ardennes in the southeast contrast sharply with the rolling plains which make up much of the northern and western countryside. The most notable features are the great forest near the frontier with Germany and Luxembourg and the wide, sandy beaches of the northern coast.

3 It is easy both to enter and to travel around pocket-sized Belgium which is divided the Dutch-speaking north and the French-speaking south. Officially the Belgians speak Dutch, French and German. Dutch is slightly more widely spoken than French, and German is spoken the least. The Belgians, living in the north, will often prefer to answer visitors in English rather than French, even if the visitor's French is good.

4 Belgium has a wide range of hotels from 5-star luxury to small family pensions and inns. In some regions of the country, farm holidays are available. There visitors can (for a small cost) participate in the daily work of the farm. There are plenty of opportunities to rent furnished villas, flats, rooms, or bungalows for a holiday period. These holiday houses and flats are comfortable and well-equipped.

5 The Belgian style of cooking is similar to French, based on meat and seafood. Each region in Belgium has its own special dish. Butter, cream, beer and wine are generously used in cooking. The Belgians are keen on their food, and the country is very well supplied with excellent restaurants to suit all budgets. The perfect evening out here involves a delicious meal, and the restaurants and cafes are busy at all times of the week.

6 As well as being one of the best cities in the world for eating out (both for its high quality and range), Brussels has a very active and varied nightlife. It has 10 theatres which produce plays in both Dutch and French. There are also dozens of cinemas, numerous discos and many night-time cafes in Brussels. Elsewhere, the nightlife choices depend on the size of the town, but there is no shortage of fun to be had in any of the major cities.

7 There is a good system of underground trains, trams and buses in all the major towns and cities. In addition, Belgium's waterways offer a pleasant way to enjoy the country. Visitors can take a one-hour cruise around the canals of Bruges (sometimes described as the Venice of the North) or an extended cruise along the rivers and canals linking the major cities of Belgium and the Netherlands

The Seven Wells. Crimean Legend

Long-long ago in the Crimean village there were problems with water. So, the men dug seven wells that started to give some water to the local people. Once, a German man was chosen as the head of the village. He was a wise man and he offered the people to take water free. So everybody was happy to get as much water as they needed. That man had seven sons. The youngest, whose name was Fritz was the healthiest and strongest in the family. In his childhood he noticed that when some water was taken from the wells, it splashed on the ground. So he didn't like that and once said to his father, "When I grow up, I'll ask the village dwellers to pay for the water from the wells. They splash too much water on the ground". "On, no!" said his father, "water is the most precious thing in this land. It should be free." A few years passed. The old German died. Then his six sons died of some disease one by one, and Fritz was made head of the village. He immediately made his wish come true. He said to the villagers that from that day they should pay for the water from the wells. All the wells were locked and Fritz kept the keys to the wells. One day the village dwellers decided to rebel against Fritz because he told them they wouldn't have any water for one day. An old soldier came to the village. He was tired and thirsty and asked for some pure water. Fritz didn't let him drink because the soldier had no money to pay for it. The soldier begged Fritz to help him. But it was all in vain. When the soldier was dying, he cursed Fritz. After his death one of the wells was open but the water disappeared from it. When Fritz's servant opened the other six wells and found no water there, he told it to his master. Fritz was furious. Thus he was punished for his cruelty.

Текст для аудирования № 3. Graffiti

You can travel almost anywhere in the world, and you will probably see graffiti. Although graffiti is more common in big cities, today you may find it in almost any region or district, big or small. It's everywhere: on trains, walls, bridges and buildings. Love it or hate it but graffiti is part of the everyday urban world. Some people consider it art while others think it's vandalism. However, few of them really know how old graffiti is.

The word graffiti itself probably comes from the old Greek verb which means "to write".

Writings on walls already existed in ancient Rome. The Romans cut graffiti on walls and monuments. It showed phrases of love, political ideas, simple thoughts, magic spells, alphabets, and famous quotations from literature.

Modern graffiti dates back to the US of the 1960s. At that time for young people it was a form of self-expression and a political protest. Teenage groups in New York, for example, painted graffiti to mark their territory. Later, there started competitions between different groups. That meant that the quality of graffiti became more important than just the amount of it.

Today graffiti has travelled all over the world. However, it is still an illegal art. It has been always painted on private or public property, like cars, trains, fences and house walls. As a result most people see it as vandalism. Besides, it's rather hard to clean graffiti paints, and cities spend millions every year on it. So, in most countries graffiti is forbidden.

On the other hand, modern graffiti is, by its nature, a form of painting. After all, the artists use the same methods and materials. However, instead of paints a graffiti artist prefers sprays, markers, and crayons. Some of their works are really impressive and fascinating, they are powerful and have a deep meaning. Graffiti often makes grey walls look cheerful.

The purpose of some graffiti is to spread and declare social ideas. That's why a lot of graffiti paintings have political topics. Some cities have special places where the walls of different buildings can be used to create pieces of graffiti art.

Probably, the most famous graffiti artist is Banksy, who comes from Bristol, England. He strongly believes that writing graffiti on buildings is an effective way to communicate with people. His works are very often aggressive, provocative and even rude. In his graffiti he expresses personal political and social views, which are against war and capitalism.

Are these statements true or false?

1. Graffiti is more common in small towns.
2. Many people consider it art.
3. The word graffiti itself comes from the old Greek verb which means "to write".
4. The Greeks cut graffiti on walls and monuments.
5. It was a form of self-expression of young people in the US in the 1960s.
6. There were never competitions in graffiti between different groups.
7. Graffiti is a legal art now
8. It's rather hard to clean graffiti paints.
9. Many cities spend millions dollars every year on cleaning graffiti on walls.
10. Graffiti artists prefer sprays, markers, and crayons instead of paints.

Answer the questions.

1. Is graffiti an old or modern art?
2. When and where did modern graffiti begin?
3. Why is it considered to be an illegal art?
4. What is the purpose of graffiti?
5. Who is the most famous graffiti artist?
